(Short Answer Type Questions)

2. Read the passage carefully and answer the questions given below : 5

If you try to know how your food is digested, you will be surprised ? How much work is required to just digest the food ! We put it into our mouth and chew it. The saliva mixes with it. Then we swallow it and it goes to the stomach. Here the digestive juices and enzymes work on it. It moves further into the large intestine for assimilation and the process goes on. So much is happening ! All we know is to put the food in the mouth. After that we don't know what happens. There is a significance of what we know, but the significance of what we don't know is much more. It is just not possible to know everything about this entire creation.

Questions :

- (i) What is a matter of surprise ?
- (ii) What mixes with saliva ?
- (iii) What happens to the food in the stomach ?
- (iv) What is more significant, the known or the unknown ?
- (v) Provide a suitable title to the passage.
